

News from Town Hall

Winter / Spring 2020

Greetings North Wilkesboro residents,

I'd like to thank you all for the welcome you've extended to my family and me since our arrival last summer. You've made us feel right at home and we appreciate your hospitality.

But now town news.

In December, the town welcomed two new members to the Board of Commissioners: Michael Parsons and Andrew Palmer. They join re-elected commissioner Bert Hall, and returning commissioners Angela Day, Debbie Ferguson, and Mayor Robert Johnson. In the next few weeks the Commissioners and I begin the process of putting together the town budget for the upcoming fiscal year. More than any other single document, the budget is your elected officials' expression of community priorities. In the late spring, probably May, we'll hold a public hearing giving you the chance share your own thoughts. Stay tuned for more information on that.

Finally I'd like to publicly express my appreciation for town employees: The men and women in blue and red keeping us safe, the men and women in orange collecting our trash and maintaining our streets, the crew at our parks, the experts at our water and sewer facilities, and the servants at Town Hall. Whether their job is in a patrol car, on the back of a truck, or behind a desk, their sweat is what makes this town run. And, to me, the most remarkable thing is that they act like it's no big deal.

On behalf of these folks and the North Wilkesboro Board of Commissioners,

I wish you all a happy spring!

Wilson Hooper, Town Manager
